Pressure Garments for
Scar Management

Jobskin® Premium™

Jobskin® Premium™ Garments

Made-to-measure products which are designed to provide a precise pressure and are produced to the finest detail and finishing. This ensures the correct amount of pressure considered necessary is applied to the maturing scar to control and treat hypertrophic and problem scarring.

After trauma to the skin, wound healing occurs and there is an imbalance in the orientation and synthesis of collagen fibres. This subsequent build up of collagen results in the formation of lumpy, hard, raised scars which can cause disfigurement. If the scarring runs across joint surfaces it can result in functional disability due to contractures of the joints.

Efficacy of Pressure Garments

The evidence gathered through international research¹ and clinical observation shows that the early application of pressure garments with the correct wearing regime is successful in helping to control the growth of abnormal scar tissue in problem scarring.

Jobskin® Premium™ garments help to achieve a flatter, softer more pliable scar which results in an improved cosmetic appearance, a reduction of potential contractures and optimal aesthetic and functional outcome for the individual.

Indications

The management and prophylactic treatment of problem scarring, including hypertrophic or keloid scars, and associated joint contractures caused by damage to the skin following burns, trauma or post surgical scar complications.
